

WE'RE A PART OF EARTH DAY NETWORK!

We're part of the Earth Day Network's (EDN) first-ever, state-based campaign held right here in Virginia (virtually due to COVID-19)! By partnering with the EDN, Mason joined a movement of more than 75,000 partners from 190 countries who are committed to driving transformative change for people and planet. We're going to celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Earth Day on April 22nd, 2020 and we hope that you will too! If you're interested in getting involved with the EDN, here's some amazing opportunities to do so:

For everything Earth Day related, please check out the Earth Day action hub HERE. Consider joining one of the EDN's many initiatives or check-out some of their amazing resources below:

FIND AN EARTH DAY EVENT:

New VA Earth Day Website – All VA Partner logos are at the bottom of the page (Mason is there, check it out!)

Earth Challenge 2020 – This is the world's largest coordinated citizen-science campaign. The initiative integrates existing citizen science projects and builds capacity for new ones — all to grow citizen science worldwide. Using mobile technology and open citizen science data, Earth Challenge 2020 empowers people around the world to monitor and mitigate threats to environmental and human health in their communities.

FoodPrints for the Future – A “foodprint” measures the environmental impacts associated with the growth, production, transportation, and storage of our food.

EARTHRISE – EARTHRISE is the largest, most diverse global mobilization in history on behalf of our environment and our planet. The EDN needs your help!

End Plastic Pollution – A campaign that helps people understand the impacts of plastic pollution on human and ecosystem health while providing participants with actionable knowledge to affect positive change.

HOSTING A (VIRTUAL) EARTH MONTH EVENT?

Complete this survey if you are (virtually, due to COVID-19) hosting a sustainability-focused program, event, or initiative so we review its inclusion for the official Earth Month Calendar!